Introduction

The Directory and Statistics of Oregon Libraries 1988 provides information on 211 public libraries, 58 academic libraries, and 133 special libraries in the state, as well as information on the Oregon State Library. The directory information is compiled from questionnaires sent to each library and from other directory information sources. The statistics are also compiled from questionnaires received from the libraries in the fall of 1988. All of the libraries report statistics according to their own organizational year, which in the case of all of the public libraries and most of the academic libraries, ran from July 1, 1987 to June 30, 1988.

As was the case in past two years, the public library statistics are based on the Cooperative Public Library Data System, devised by a committee of the American Library Association in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics. This new system is designed to insure comparability of data between all of the states adopting the system, and will hopefully result, in the near future, in a national database of public library statistics. For the third year the academic library statistics were collected using the U. S. Department of Education's Integrated Post-Secondary Data System (IPEDS). The special library statistics were collected using a questionnaire adapted from IPEDS.

This year's Directory and Statistics contains several improvements over the 1987 edition. For the first time we have attempted to collect statistics from small community public libraries which have yet to become legally established under Oregon statutes. Four of these libraries responded to this effort, and we hope to see more of these libraries participate in our data collection in the future. We have also added several new categories to our "top twenty" ranking of public library performance statistics for 1987-88. This was done with the help of suggestions from libraries in the Chemeketa Cooperative Regional Library System. Also in response to suggestions from public librarians, we have attempted this year to collect information on library staff compensation, both on an annual basis and on an hourly basis. The statistical tables in Part 1.3 present these data both ways.

All of the statistical data that were submitted to the State Library are maintained in a computer database. The database was used to generate the statistical sections of this publication. Not all of the data are published, but only the data that we feel to be the most important and the most useful. We would welcome requests for any of the statistical data that we maintain, and are glad to generate special statistical reports to meet specific needs.

As always we would be pleased to receive any suggestions for improvements to the Directory and Statistics which would serve to make it a more useful publication.

For those of you who might be interested in the production of this document, a technical note: The State Library uses an Apple Macintosh SE and Microsoft Excel software to maintain its database of library statistics. The publication itself involved the use of the Macintosh and Microsoft Excel, in addition to Microsoft Word and Chart. Copy production utilized an Apple LaserWriter Plus printer.

Comparisons of Oregon Public Library Statistics Combined by County

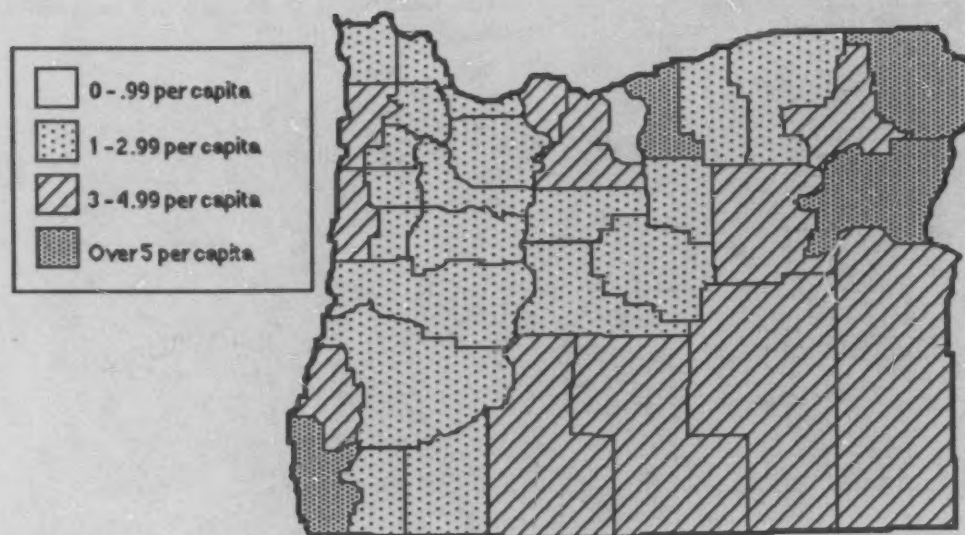

Presented on the next four pages are comparisons of public library statistics by county. The data on which the comparisons are based was calculated by combining a given statistic for all of the public libraries or library cooperatives or systems within one county and dividing the result by the total county population (July, 1987). The purpose of this analysis is to be able to make a broad county-by-county assessment of library resources and services in the state. For the fourteen consolidated county library systems in Oregon (Baker, Benton, Crook, Douglas, Grant, Harney, Hood River, Jackson, Jefferson, Josephine, Klamath, Lake, Multnomah, Tillamook) the "combined" statistics are identical to their system statistics presented in Part 1.3 of this publication. For the remaining 22 counties, please bear in mind the fact that the data for all of the independent libraries in the county are combined to arrive at the composite county figure. The combined county figure for these libraries may or may not reflect the services and resources of an individual library within a county. Statistics for the Chemeketa Cooperative Regional Library Service were omitted from the data due to the fact that CCRLS serves a three-county area (Polk, Yamhill, Marion), and their statistics cannot be broken down by county. Also, in arriving at the data for the number of volumes of library materials per capita, a title count was substituted for a volume count in cases where a volume count was not available.

Introduction

The Directory and Statistics of Oregon Libraries 1989 provides information on 214 public libraries, 62 academic libraries, and 166 special libraries in the state, as well as information on the Oregon State Library. The directory information is compiled from questionnaires sent to each library and from other directory information sources. The statistics are also compiled from questionnaires received from the libraries in the fall of 1989. All of the libraries report statistics according to their own organizational year, which in the case of all of the public libraries and most of the academic libraries, ran from July 1, 1988 to June 30, 1989.

As was the case in past three years, the public library statistics are based on the Federal-State Cooperative System for public library data (FSCS) of the U. S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics. This new system is designed to insure comparability of data between all 50 states, and will hopefully result, next year, in a comprehensive national database of public library statistics. For the fourth year the academic library statistics were collected using a slightly modified version of the U. S. Department of Education's Integrated Post-Secondary Data System (IPEDS). The special library statistics were collected using a questionnaire adapted from IPEDS.

This year's Directory and Statistics contains several improvements over the 1988 edition. For the first time, a map illustrating the governance of public libraries has been added. Also for the first time are charts showing long term (five decade) trends in public library input and output statistics. A table has been added to the public library statistics giving a breakdown of library collections by format for each reporting library. Finally, we have made some improvements to the format of all of the statistical tables which will hopefully make them easier to use.

All of the statistical data that were submitted to the State Library are maintained in a computer database. The database was used to generate the statistical sections of this publication. Not all of the data are published, but only the data that we feel to be the most important and the most useful. We would welcome requests for any of the statistical data that we maintain, and are glad to generate special statistical reports to meet specific needs.

As always we would be pleased to receive any suggestions for improvements to the Directory and Statistics which would serve to make it a more useful publication.

For those of you who might be interested in the production of this document, a technical note: The State Library uses Apple Macintosh computers and Microsoft Excel software to maintain its database of library statistics. The publication itself involved the use of the Macintosh and Microsoft Excel, in addition to Microsoft Word, Cricket Graph, and SuperPaint. Copy production utilized an Apple LaserWriter Plus printer.

Comparisons of Oregon Public Library Statistics Combined by County

Presented on the next four pages are comparisons of public library statistics by county. The data on which the comparisons are based was calculated by combining a given statistic for all of the public libraries or library cooperatives or systems within one county and dividing the result by the total county population (July, 1988). The purpose of this analysis is to be able to make a broad county-by-county assessment of library resources and services in the state. For the fourteen consolidated county library systems in Oregon (Baker, Benton, Crook, Douglas, Grant, Harney, Hood River, Jackson, Jefferson, Josephine, Klamath, Lake, Multnomah, Tillamook) the "combined" statistics are identical to their system statistics presented in Part 1.4 of this publication. For the remaining counties, please bear in mind the fact that the data for all of the independent libraries in the county are combined to arrive at the composite county figure. The combined county figure for these libraries may or may not reflect the services and resources of an individual library within a county. Statistics for the Chemeketa Cooperative Regional Library Service were omitted from the data due to the fact that CCRLS serves a three-county area (Polk, Yamhill, Marion), and their statistics cannot be broken down by county. Also, in arriving at the data for the number of volumes of library materials per capita, a title count was substituted for a volume count in cases where a volume count was not available.
